

NEW COUNCIL READY TO BEGIN TONIGHT WORK BEFORE BODY

Fixing of Budget and Setting Millage For Year Scheduled to Come Up.

TAXES WILL BE HIGHER

Solons Said to Be Convinced That It Will Be Impossible to Make Ends Meet on Revenues at Old Rate; Mass of Routine Business to Be Disposed.

A meeting of city council will be held tonight, the first regular session of the new body since its induction into office last Monday. The council has already been reorganized and is ready to go immediately to work.

During last week an after-noon conference was held and matters which will be taken up tonight were talked over in a preliminary fashion. One big task which faces council, has practically been put into shape to make it easy to handle tonight, that of fixing the budget for 1920 and introducing it. A figure around $104,000 was set as the amount necessary to finance the city in the coming 12 months.

The budget was to have been taken up and introduced by the old body before it went out, but no definite action, with the exception of giving city employees a 20 per cent increase in wages, was taken.

It is understood that council will fix a new and higher millage tonight. It is impossible, it is said, to get sufficient funds for the expenditures in the next year without this action. Although no definite figures have been announced, it is said all department heads have found it necessary to increase their estimates of the amounts needed in their branches, especially in the public safety and mayor's departments with this increase being noticeable on account of the larger number of men affected by the 20 per cent increase.

In addition to the budget and millage there is plenty of other routine business to be transacted. Councilman C. W. Utz may present his garbage report tonight.

UPWARD SLIDING SCALE

Of Rate for Natural Gas Not Allowed By Public Service Commission.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12.—Higher rates for larger consumers, is an unjust discrimination and illegal, according to a decision by the Public Service Commission on the sliding-increased scale of rates proposed by the Pennsylvania Gas company a corporation supplying natural gas to Erie and Corry.

Complaint was filed against the proposed schedule of the company, which sought to increase its rates with each 5,000 cubic feet of increased consumption. The decision lays down the new policy that a public utility company may require careful use of its product for the elimination of waste.

MINERS WILL ACCEPT, THEY SAY, DECISION OF COAL COMMISSION

Operators Await Answer to Questions Propounded at Hearing Before Making Reply.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Blumington coal miners will accept unreservedly any decision made by the President's coal commission in settlement of the coal strike, John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America declared at the opening today of the first public hearings of the committee.

Thomas P. Brewster, secretary of the scale committee of the operators in the central competitive field, replying to the same question by the chairman, said he could make no promise for the operators until the commission had given answer to 10 questions propounded by the operators.

One of the questions was whether the commission's award would be final on both miners and operators, whether the commission would adjust matters brought out by either side as to its authority to fix wages, whether it would consider it had power to make retroactive awards concerning wages and prices and whether in fixing prices to sustain its decision it would consider that the prices to make would not hold after the expiration of the Lever food and fuel act.

Operators asked for the adjournment of the commission so they might confer this afternoon.

By Associated Press.

PEKING, Jan. 12.—Dr. A. L. Shelton, Christian missionary, was captured by bandits at Looyakuan, near Yunnan-Fu on January 3 and is being held for ransom, according to reports received here.

Dr. Shelton's wife and two daughters, who have arrived at Yunnan-Fu, say the kidnappers acted under orders of Yang Tien Pu, a notorious outlaw who has been operating with 5,000 followers in the Kachin mountains.

It is said the object of this lawless act has been to discredit the local governor for refusing to accept the terms of surrender laid down by the band.

The brigands stated they would treat their prisoner as a guest unless the military was employed to effect his release. Officials of the American legation here and Chinese authorities are investigating the case.

PHONE BOOTHS ROBBED

JOHN P. MCABE, A VETERAN RETIRED COKE WORKER, DIES

End Comes Suddenly to Former Connellsville Man at Home of Daughter at Scotland.

John Philip McCabe, 75 years old, for 22 years yard boss at the Davidson plant of the H. C. Frick Coke company and since young manhood an employee of the company, died Saturday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Eberhardt, 112 Second avenue, Scotland.

Mr. McCabe was in his usual health when he retired Saturday evening. He was found dead in bed Sunday morning.

Mr. McCabe was employed at Davidson from 1871 to the time of his retirement on a pension. For many years he lived in what is now McCormick Elizabeth. His wife, who was formerly Elizabeth Eberhardt, died in 1913 and since then he had lived with his daughter at Scotland. Other Frick plants at which he was employed were Norvelt, at the time that the late H. C. Frick was time-keeper; McClure and Alverton.

Born in England, Mr. McCabe came to this country soon after his marriage and had ever since lived in the coke region. For 40 years he was a member of the Knights of Pythias of Connellsville and for 35 years of the Royal Arcanum of this city. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Scotland. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Eberhardt; three sons, P. H. McCabe, Scotland, and A. E. McCabe and Homer McCabe, Uniontown, and by one sister-in-law, Mrs. William Harris of Connellsville. Funeral services will be conducted at the Eberhardt home Tuesday at 2 o'clock with Rev. N. L. Brown officiating. Interment will be in Hill Grove cemetery, Connellsville. By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—A unique in the annals of the earthquake is the experience of the family of Prof. Riveros of Barrancan-Nuevo. The quake opened a great chasm in the earth in which their home was engulfed. For more than a week members of the family have been living in the bottom of this abyss at least 140 feet below the surface of the earth.

Surviving neighbors have been lowering them food and water at the imminent risk of dislodging rocks which might fall and crush those beneath.

Belief is expressed that rains or new shocks will be dangerous to those in the abyss.

BURNED BY ACID

Rockwell Dull Victim of Painful Accident at Local Drug Store.

Rockwell Dull, who is connected with the internal revenue department in Pittsburgh and was home for the weekend to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dull of East Crawford avenue, was painfully burned Saturday night when a bottle of carbolic acid was accidentally tipped from a shelf at the Biegel drug store. The liquid splashed over his face, burning him about the left eye, on the forehead and cheek. Quick use of alcohol by William Biegel, proprietor of the store, perhaps prevented serious results and physicians who have been attending the young man at the Cottage State hospital said there probably would be no marks of the burns, also that the eye was not injured.

The mishap occurred as Messrs. Biegel, Ignatius Soisson, Dull and Ben Campbell were hurrying from the store, Biegel and Soisson intending to catch the 11:30 car for Uniontown. Soisson's sleeve caught against the bottle of acid and pulled it from the shelf. Dull threw up his hand and the stuff was splashed onto his face. Dr. Don B. Brooks was called to dress the burns and the young man was taken to the hospital.

MORMONS "LIVE" POLYGAMY BUT DO NOT "PRACTICE" IT

Strange Interpretation of Plural Marriage Given By Utah Educator.

Only Through Character Building Among Young of Utah Can Ideals Be Changed, Says Head of Salt Lake City College in an Address Here.

The Mormons of Utah continue to live in plural married state, Rev. Dr. H. W. Rehder, president of Westminster college, Salt Lake City, said in an address Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church where he appeared in behalf of the institution of which he is the head and for which a movement is afoot to raise a fund for extension of its work.

Some Mormons who they are not practicing polygamy. They are not lying, either, he said. From their point of view they are not practicing it. Yet they are living it. Dr. Rehder said he was astounded when this statement was made to him. They make this distinction between "living" and "practicing." Dr. Rehder said: "Living polygamy is continuing to live with the old wives. Practicing polygamy is taking new wives."

So far as is known, Dr. Rehder said, the Mormon husband does not live under the same roof with plural wives but maintains them in several homes. The Mormon church continues to hold to Mormonism, despite any denials that may be made, the speaker asserted.

Character building among the young of the state is the only means, in the opinion of Dr. Rehder, of eliminating the Mormon ideal and this, he said, can only be accomplished through the Christian school system.

Westminster college is the only Christian institution of its kind in Utah. The Congregationalists and Methodists attempted to start colleges but gave up. The total Christian population is approximately 9,000 and 2,000 of this number are Presbyterians.

According to Dr. Rehder there are four systems of education in Utah. There are the public schools and a state university all controlled by the Mormons. Then the Mormons have a system of their own, as have the Catholics. The Protestant Christian system is the fourth. It is through this, Dr. Rehder said, that the way may be opened for ridding the nation of the menace of Mormonism.

Great work has been accomplished by Westminster college, Dr. Rehder said, but the institution is unable now because of limited facilities, to receive more students. The college has a campus of 20 acres, four complete buildings and one under construction. What is needed is a fund to add to the number of buildings and increase the faculty.

Utah is a state of tremendous natural wealth, including coal; in area it is nearly twice the size of Pennsylvania. If the ideals are permitted to remain as they are in 25 years the Mormon question may be a serious problem for the nation, Dr. Rehder said. Only through the agency of the Christian schools can the ideals be changed, he added.

VARIOUS REPORTS

HEARD CONCERNING BENEDUM-TREES WELL

They Range From "Dry" to Oil; Near-Residents Say Great Flow of Gas Is Heard.

Conflicting reports continue to be circulated relative to the Benedum-Trees well in Lincoln township across the river from the big field at McKeesport. Officially it is said, the well was reported "dry."

Persons living nearby say the roar when the company drilled into the Speakeley sand last week resembled that of one of the big ones on the opposite side of the stream.

The McKeesport Gas Journal quotes the driller, Edward M. Shields, as estimating the flow at 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 cubic feet, but observers say this is far too conservative. Other reports persist that oil was struck.

CHURCH DIGNITARIES BITTERLY DENOUNCE LATE DRESS STYLES

Wearers Defy the Laws of Hygiene as Well as of Modesty and Decency; Not Fit to Become Wives.

(Associated Press Correspondence)

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Cardinal Metzger a few days ago, in a pastoral letter, denounced the abbreviated garments for women popularized by Parisian fashions. Father Bernard Vaughan, of London, who in the past has said many hard things of the follies and extravagances of the rich has now, in an interview, followed the Cardinal's example. He said:

"When I ask myself what is inspiring this tendency to nudity in women's modern costume, my answer is it cannot be a rightful desire to promote the health of our debilitated people. To-day's want of clothing is savagely exposing them to consumption and its kindred ailments, not by hundreds but thousands. So I am assured by competent authorities. Our girls who ought to live to a ripe old age drop, drop and die like flowers uprooted by warmth and sunshine. Improperly fed and improperly dressed, they defy all the laws of hygiene and down they go."

"Nor can the object in prevailing fashions be a love of the true and the beautiful for never did fashions as they do today so grievously militate against the canons of good taste and the laws of symmetry."

"I cannot but arrive at the conclusion that today's fashions are designed and cut not to drap the human figure and keep it warm, beautiful and comfortable, but, on the contrary it would seem that today's so-called costumes are created with the sole purpose of awakening in man unholy desires and perhaps of fanning into flame those already kindled."

"How such conduct can be defended it is impossible for me as a Christian, next to conjecture. Personally I feel quite sure that should immediately on the part of girls defects in their own ends. A decent man who intends to marry a girl and make her the queen of his heart and the mistress of his home is not going to choose for his partner 'till death do them part' a girl who has so little respect for the laws of decency."

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach and cold.

Are you keeping your liver and bowels clean with Cascarets, or shocking your insides every few days with Calomel, Salts, Oil and violent pills? Cascarets work while you sleep; they cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Cascarets never gripe, sicken or cause inconvenience and Cascarets cost so little too—Adv.

41 HENS LAY 13 EGGS A DAY. EASILY DONE

Mr. Moore's Hens Lay When Eggs are Scarce. Here's the Plan.

"I had been getting 3 or 4 eggs a day from 15 hens. Then I commenced putting Don Sung in the feed, and am getting 13 to 14 eggs a day, with one hen setting. Don Sung is the best thing I ever found for making hens lay."

Mr. Moore used 50 cents worth of Don Sung in January. Figure his profit with eggs selling at around 10 cents a dozen. And this is no better than Don Sung is doing for thousands of others. Accept our offer just as Mr. Moore did.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and it is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry dealer or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid Bureau-Dugger, 320 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.—Adv.

Buy McKeesport-Standard Gas and Oil Stock

Share in 10 Gas Wells for $100

BECAUSE:

We intend to drill ten wells. Each subscriber of one share or more participated in all ten wells.

Our locations are considered among the best in this gas field, all near other good wells.

One well is now drilling, two others are under construction, and the remainder will follow in rapid succession.

We have associated with us a corps of expert engineers who know the Gas and Oil business.

We are going to conduct this enterprise in a strictly business-like manner. This is not a stock promotion scheme, we are investing our own money to a proportionate share, than any other share for we believe we have a proposition that is going to pay a big return in gas production.

We are going to do everything possible to bring a good return for our own and any other investors' money.

The men who are promoting this enterprise are business men, who stand well in their several communities.

They are Joseph H. Ruben, of McKeesport, and L. Lehman, of Pittsburgh.

We refer you to the Peoples Bank or any other bank in McKeesport.

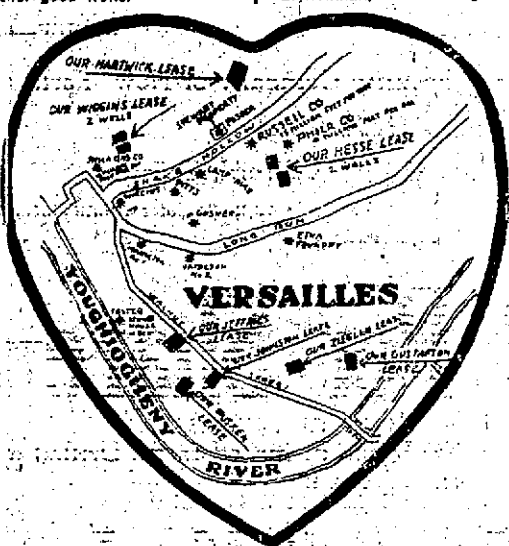

There are no salaries paid to any officer or manager for this enterprise.

This is a limited partnership affair.

There are no stock assessments; no stock company director or officers will draw salaries.

The one thing we can promise you is a square deal, which means much in the promotion of Gas and Oil well enterprises.

If you care to subscribe to our enterprise, the shares are $100.00 each (non-assessable) which participate in all ten wells. We have sold quite a good many shares already. Any application for shares will be received subject to previous sale.

Millions Being Made In This Field

An idea of the chances of success is given by the fact that out of 21 gas wells drilled recently in the McKeesport field, 20 of them are producers. The total daily production of these 20 wells is, conservatively, 160,000,000 feet, representing a cash value of more than $25,000 per day—or better than $1,000 per day per well. A five million foot gas well earns $750 a day—$22,500 a month. A forty million foot gas well earns $3,000 a day—$90,000 a month.

THERE IS HARDLY A CITIZEN OF MCKEESPORT WHO HAS NOT BOUGHT STOCK OR INVESTED MONEY IN THIS GAS FIELD. THEY ARE ON THE GROUND—THEY KNOW THE BIG PROFITS THAT ARE BEING MADE.

Stock is Selling Fast—Send in Your Order Today

This is your big chance to get in on the ground floor with a real company, and share in 10 wells. Send your order today.

The men at the head of this proposition are Joseph H. Ruben, president Ruben Furniture Co., McKeesport, Pa., and L. Lehman, manager May, Stern & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. Their high business standing may be ascertained through any bank.

THE SOISSON.

"A HONOLULU HONEYMOON"—A musical comedy of distinction, filled to the brim with clean comedy, popular song hits and refreshing lines and portrayed by a remarkably capable cast, will be the attraction Thursday, after a successful run at the Tiffin Hotel, Uniontown, on Tuesday, January 13th. The production is by Melroy & Clark, the producers, are very proud of the attraction and say it is the best they have ever offered to a discriminating public. They have dressed it without regard to expense and have dug into the various parts of a company of principals, including Ned Melroy, Leonora, Mierke, Glenn, East, Lulu Moore, Flo Kennedy and Dan Grady. The chorus is a large one, numerically speaking, and the girls are really charming. There are a lot of girls in the company—big girls, spectators and what their love. If one little girls, pretty girls, chic girls, goes of the theatre feeling blue and graceful girls, brown-haired girls, girls with titian locks, girls with hair as black as the Raven's wing, new girls, demure girls, college girls and girls that can sing and dance.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"PEGEEN"—Featuring Bessie Love, supported by an all star cast, is being shown today. Miss Love has a role after her own heart. "Peggy" is a character who is always trying to bring joy into the lives of other people. So engrossed did Miss Love be in her work, while taking the picture, that she actually forgot that she was acting. The spirit of "Peggy" got into Miss Love's soul and for weeks afterwards she went around trying to make everybody happy. Bessie Love has given to "Peggy" a personality, a touch, that words fail to express. She brings the little screen character into the lives of the girls in the company—big girls, spectators and what their love. If one little girls, pretty girls, chic girls, goes of the theatre feeling blue and

LOCAL COMPANIES SHORTLY WILL BE DRILLING FOR GAS

Preparations Being Rushed to Reach Producing Sands at McKeesport.

HAVE VISIONS OF WEALTH

Lot of Connelville Money Is Being Put Into Several Operations in New Field and Stock in Others Is Being Largely Sold Here and Vicinity.

Before long a number of wells in the McKeesport gas field in which Connelville persons are interested will be in process of drilling. Plans are being assembled on several and the sale of stock for others is being rushed.

Stock in the Peterson, McKee & Richards Oil & Gas company in which there are numerous Connelville share holders and which will drill three wells in the Snake Hollow district was sold out some time ago and the next few days should see the beginning of drilling. The company has two locations, one right in the heart of the gasier field, the other a short distance away and the stockholders have visions of wealth shortly springing from the wells.

The West Penn Oil & Gas company, stock for which was sold largely in Connelville and vicinity, expects to be drilling this week. Materials have been landed on the scene and the work of erecting the rig up is under way. The company has eight lots at Stillview at the lower end of Snake Hollow.

There are a number of stockholders in the Kelly well of the Elrod Drilling company which on Saturday had reached a depth of 500 feet. It was reported gas had been struck.

By Friday the rig for a well of the Industrial Oil & Gas company at Versailles will be under way, according to R. A. Neville, one of the promoters of this concern. Three wells are to be sunk. Direction of the rig was to be started today.

Stock in the Connelville & McKeesport Gas & Oil company, a Connelville company is selling rapidly. This is being promoted by James J. Driscoll of The Courier and M. J. Roland of the West Side. The company has contracted for a derrick and will be in position to proceed with the drilling as soon as the sale of stock has been closed. The shares are offered at a popular price, $50, and the stock is non-assessable.

Another locally promoted concern is the United McKeesport Oil & Gas company of which J. Melvin Grey and A. C. Herwick are trustees. The company has secured leases on three and a half acres in the Snake Hollow field and will drill four wells. Fourteen hundred shares at $100 each were offered and a considerable part of this is said to have been subscribed.

The Stone Gas & Oil company, promoted by C. M. Stone of this city, capitalized at $25,000, is offering shares for sale here. The company expects to begin operations on the erection of the derrick by January 15. Pitt & Strothers company of Clarkburg, W. Va., have been engaged to do the drilling.

discouraged, "Peggy" gives that person a new view of life and sends him away with a smile on his face.

THE SOISSON.

"BLUE BONNET"—An interesting picture, with Billy Rhodes in a delightful role, is today's feature attraction. The picture is in five acts and the role in which Billy Rhodes appears gives her a splendid opportunity to display her dramatic ability. A selected comedy is also being shown.

Manager Wagner has secured excellent attractions for this week. Wednesday "She Pays," a big production with an all star cast, will be shown and on Thursday "Honolulu Honeymoon," a musical comedy, will be presented in the afternoon and evening. Friday and Saturday "The Girl from Nowhere" will be shown.

SMITHFIELD, Jan. 12.—William Herliester and wife of Hunters Mill, were in the borough Thursday executing papers by which they transferred title to a piece of land in Springfield township to Mike Stranko of the same place for the consideration of $9800.

C. O. Bosley has leased a half at York Run and after filling it up so that it will meet the requirements of the law will open a movie in it. James Moody, an overseas veteran, is associated with him in the enterprise.

Mrs. C. J. Dunn is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. R. O'Neill at New Salem. Howard S. Davis, of Out Crop, was a borough business visitor Saturday.

L. J. Grannell, a B. & O. brakeman was taken seriously ill on his train here one day last week and had to be taken to his home here in a conveyance, since which time his condition has been serious. His illness baffles his physician, who does not know what his ailment is.

Leadore Frankel, proprietor of the Consumers Supply store, has been in Pittsburgh since Thursday, was called there on account of a brother-in-law being operated on in a hospital.

Representative S. A. Kendal furnished the G. A. R. Post here with a copy of the pension bill that recently passed the House by a majority of 231 to 55. It is said that the 65 voting against the bill were all from South of the Mason and Dixon line. Will they never forget nor forgive?

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

Worper did not relish the idea of engaging in a battle with Basuli and his fierce fighting men. And, again, he had welcomed the sight of them returning toward the Greystoke bungalow.

Worper Recognized the Party Immediately.

gallow, for he had begun to have doubts as to his ability to retrace his steps to the Waziri country. Tarzan, he knew, had not the remotest idea of whether they were going. By keeping at a safe distance behind the indomitable warriors they would have no difficulty in following them home.

He argued with the men, therefore, against the latter's desire to exterminate the blacks, and at last he prevailed upon Tarzan to follow them in peace, saying he was sure they would lead them out of the forest into a rich country, teeming with game.

It was many marches from Opaz to the Waziri country; but at last came the hour when Tarzan and the Belgians, following the trail of the warriors, topped the last rise, and saw before them the broad Waziri plain, the winding river and the distant forests to the north and west.

A mile or more ahead of them the line of warriors was creeping like a giant caterpillar through the tall grasses of the plain. Tarzan looked out across the familiar vista, with no faintest gleam of recognition in his eyes. He did not look in the direction of his bungalow. Worper, however, did. A puzzled expression entered the Belgians' eyes. He shaded them with his palms and gazed long and earnestly toward the spot where the bungalow had stood. He could not credit the testimony of his eyes—there was no bungalow—no barns—no outhouses. The corral, the haystacks—all were gone. What could it mean?

And then slowly they filtered into Worper's consciousness an explanation of the havoc that had been wrought in that peaceful valley since last his eyes rested upon it—Achmet Zek had been there!

Basuli and his warriors had noted the devastation the moment they had come in sight of the farm. Now they hastened on toward it talking excitedly among themselves in animated speculation upon the cause and meaning of the catastrophe.

When at last they crossed the trampled garden and stood before the charred ruins of their master's bungalow their greatest fears became convictions in the light of the evidence about them.

"The Arabs," Basuli said, as his men clustered about him.

"The Waziri gnomes! In mute rage for several minutes. Everywhere they encountered only further evidence of the ruthlessness of the cruel enemy that had come during the Great Bwana's absence and laid waste his property."

"What did they do with Lady?" asked one of the blacks.

"They had always called Lady Greystoke thus."

"The women they would have taken with them," said Basuli. "Our women red his."

A giant black raised his spear above his head and gave voice to a savage cry of rage and hate. The others followed his example. Basuli silenced them with a gesture.

"This is no time for useless noises of the mouth," he said. "The Great Bwana has taught us that it is acts by which we are judged, not words. Let us save our breath; we shall need it to follow up the Arabs and slay them. If Lady and our women are the greater need of haste, and warriors cannot travel fast upon empty lungs."

From the shelter of the reeds along the river Worper and Tarzan watched the blacks. They saw them dig a trench with their knives and fingers. They saw them lay their yellow burdens in it and scoop up the overturned earth back over the tops of the ingots. Tarzan seemed little interested after Worper had assured him that which they buried was not food to eat, but Worper was intensely interested.

The were-birds, the blacks removed themselves a short distance up wind from the fetid corpses where they made camp, that they might rest before setting out in pursuit of the Arabs. It was already dusk. Worper and Tarzan sat devouring some pieces of meat they had brought from their last camp. The Belgians were occupied with his plans for the immediate future.

He was positive that the Waziri would pursue Achmet Zek, for he knew enough of savage warfare, and of the characteristics of the Arabs and their degraded followers to guess that they had carried the Waziri women off into slavery. This alone would assure immediate pursuit by so warlike a people as the Waziri.

Worper felt that he should find the means and the opportunity to push on ahead, that he might warn Achmet Zek of the coming of Basuli, and also of the location of the buried treasure. What the Arab would now do with Lady Greystoke, in view of the mercenary affliction of her husband, Worper neither knew nor cared. It was enough that the golden treasure buried upon the site of the burned bungalow was infinitely more valuable than any ransom that would have occurred even to the avaricious mind of the Arab, and if Worper could persuade the raider to share even a portion of it with him he would be well satisfied.

But by far the most important consideration, to Worper, at least, was the incalculably valuable treasure in the little leather pouch at Tarzan's side. If he could but obtain possession of this! He must. He would!

His eyes wandered to the object of his greed. They measured Tarzan's giant frame and rested upon the rounded muscles of his arms. It was hopeless. What could he, Werner, hope to accomplish, other than his own death, by an attempt to wrest the gems from their savage owner?

Disconsolate, Worper threw himself upon his side. His head was pillowed on one arm, the other rested across his face in such a way that his eyes were hidden from the ape-man, though one of them was fastened upon him from beneath the shadow of the Belgians' forehead.

Tarzan presently let his eyes rest upon Worper. The Belgians saw that he was being watched, and lay very still. After a few moments he simulated the regular breathing of deep slumber.

Tarzan had been thinking. He had seen the Waziri bury their belongings. Worper had told him that they were hiding them from someone and then take them away. This seemed to Tarzan a splendid plan for safeguarding valuables. Since Worper had evinced a desire to possess his glittering pebbles Tarzan, with the suspicions of a savage had guarded the treasures of whose worth he was entirely ignorant as zealously as though they spelled life or death to him.

For a long time the ape-man sat watching his companion. At last, convinced that he slept, Tarzan withdrew his hunting knife and commenced to dig a hole in the ground before him. With the blade he loosened up the earth, and with his hands he scooped it out until he had excavated a little cavity a few inches in diameter and five or six inches in depth. Into this he placed the pouch of jewels. Worper almost forgot to breathe after the fashion of a sleeper as he saw what the ape man was doing—he scarce repressed an ejaculation of satisfaction.

Tarzan became suddenly rigid as his keen ears noted the cessation of the regular inspirations and expirations of his companion. His narrow eyes bored straight down upon the Belgians. Worper felt that he was lost—he must risk all on his ability to carry on the deception. He sighed, threw both arms outward, and turned over on his back, mumbling as though to the throes of a bad dream. A moment later he resumed the regular breathing.

Now he could not watch Tarzan, but he was sure that the man sat for a long time looking at him. Then, feebly, Worper heard the other's hand scraping dirt, and later putting it down. He knew then that the jewels were buried.

It was an hour before Worper moved again, then he rolled over facing Tarzan and opened his eyes. The ape man slept. By reaching out his hand Worper could touch the spot where the pouch was buried.

For a long time he lay watching and listening. He moved about, making more noise than necessary, yet Tarzan did not awaken. He drew the sacrificial knife from his belt and plunged it into the ground. Tarzan did not move. Obviously the Belgians pushed the blade downward through the loose earth above the pouch. He felt the point touch the soft, rough fabric of the leather. Then he pried down upon the handle. Slowly the little mound of loose earth rose and parted. An instant later a corner of the pouch came into view. Worper pulled it from its hiding place and tucked it in his shirt. Then he refilled the hole and pressed the dirt carefully down as it had been before.

Greard had prompted him to act, the discovery of which by his companion could lead only to the most frightful consequences for Worper. Already he could almost feel those strong white fangs burying themselves in his neck. He shuddered. Far out across the plain a leopard screamed, and in the dense reeds behind him some great beast moved on padded feet.

Worper feared these prowlers of the night; but infinitely more he feared the just wrath of the human beast sleeping at his side. With utmost caution the Belgians arose. Tarzan did not move. Worper took a few steps toward the plain and the distant forest to the northwest then he paused and fingered the hilt of the long knife in his belt. He turned and looked down upon the sleeper.

"Why not?" he mused. "Then I should be safe."

He returned and bent above the ape-man. Clutched tightly in his hand was the sacrificial knife of the high priestess of the Flaming God!

CHAPTER VIII.

Achmet Zek Sees the Jewels.

Mugambi, weak and suffering, had dragged his painful way along the trail of the retreating raiders. He could move but slowly, resting often, but savage hatred and an equally savage desire for vengeance kept him to his task. As the days passed his wounds healed and his strength returned, until at last his giant frame had regained all of its former mighty powers. Now he went more rapidly, but the mounted Arabs had covered a great distance while the wounded black had been painfully crawling after them.

They had reached their fortified camp, and there Achmet Zek awaited the return of his Lieutenant, Albert Worper. During the long rough journey Jane Clayton had suffered more in anticipation of her impending fate than from the hardships of the road. She was of sterner stuff than that which hands in spineless terror before danger. Until hope proved futile she could not give it up, nor did she entertain thoughts of self-destruction only as a final escape from dishonor, so long as Tarzan lived there was every reason to expect success. No man nor beast who roamed the savage continent could boast the cunning and the powers of her lord and master. Tarzan would come, and she should be saved and avenged, of that she was certain. That he could find her she had no slightest doubt. No spoiler, however faint could elude the keen guidance of his senses. To him the trail of the raiders would be as plain as the printed page of an open book.

And while she hoped there came through the dark jungle another. Terrified by night and by day came Albert Worper. A dozen times he had escaped the claws and fangs of the giant carnivore only by what seemed a miracle to him. Armed with nothing more than a knife he had brought with him from Opaz, he had made his way through as savage a country as yet exists upon the face of the globe.

By night he had slept in trees. By day he had stumbled fearfully on, taking refuge among the branches when sight or sound of some great cat warned him of danger. At last he had come within sight of the path leading which were his fierce companions.

At almost the same time Mugambi came out of the jungle before the allied village. As he stood to the shadow of a great tree, reconnoitering, he saw a man, ragged and disheveled, emerge from the jungle almost at his elbow. Instantly he recognized the newcomer as he who had been a guest of his master before the latter had departed for Opaz.

The black was upon the point of halting the Belgians when something stayed him. He saw the white man walking confidently across the clearing toward the village gate. No sane man thus approached a village in this part of Africa unless he was sure of a friendly welcome. Mugambi waited. His suspicions were aroused.

He heard Worper halloo, he saw the gates swing open, and he witnessed the surprised and friendly welcome that was accorded the erstwhile guest of Lord and Lady Greystoke. A light broke upon the understanding of Mugambi. This white man had been a savior and a spy. It was to him they owed the raid during the absence of the Great Bwana. To his hate for the Arabs Mugambi added a still greater hate for the white spy.

Within the village Worper passed hurriedly toward the sultan's tent of Achmet Zek. The Arab arose as his
